Notable Items this Month

The Watson's Mill giant key was presented to Bonnie Gray in exchange for a King George VI dollar bill to the Rideau Valley Conservation Society (above).

Mark Jodoin was the guest speaker at the Merrickville Historical Society Spring Dinner in late April. Mark presented the fascinating story of Colonel Stephen Burritt, soldier, spy, and later the first settler at Burritt's Rapids. The photo, on the left, is of Mark with Nina Donald., President of the Merrickville Historical Society

Last meeting - The Bring and Brag

By Lucy Martin

There was an enthusiastic crowd--along with an excellent variety of special things--at the April 15th gathering, which was held in Carsonby.

Nicknamed the "bring and brag" meeting, this cross between Antiques Road Show and grade-school "show and tell" proved once again that value often has little to do with money.

Sandy Wilson suspects there may be thousands of Last Supper glass trays that are identical to the one she found while sorting through her late mother-in-law's things. But hers is priceless.

Secrets were revealed: Ann Cronin admitted that relatives back in England may not know she has their Grandfather's badge of office as Mayor of Dover during World War II.

Brian Earl brought in small war devices--e.g. ingenious designs to impede horses --that provoke admiration for their cunning and horror at their intent.

David Hayes radiated enthusiasm for the world of trains while explaining his own authentic rail lanterns.

Coral Lindsay brought a display of hat pins and explained how useful such sharp implements could be in thwarting high winds and over-eager suitors.

Everyone old enough to remember that year murmured in appreciative recognition when Owen Cooke held his Expo '67 Passport aloft.

Classic lamps, paintings, photographs, buckles, a family box, a patent, a tapestry, a "masterpiece" stone carving, an old underwear box, an old wooden beam recovered from the Rideau, items people wanted more information on--even a walking cane made from a cabbage plant--those and more were shared, along with fascinating stories.

Think about what story-laden treasure may be in your possession and be sure to share it with others at this very special meeting next year!

Dickinson Days. R.T.H.S. will have a table in front of Watson's Mill for Dickinson Day, June 7. Please help for an hour or two if you can. Call Brian Earl at 613-692-2371.

Doors Open at the Archives and at the Dickinson House. More information coming soon.

Doors Open at the Dickinson House. We will have three rooms on the ground floor, i.e. a family room recognizing the Dickinsons, Spratts and Watsons with Mary Clapp Spratt and Helen Spratt Hawkins as well as members of the Watson family.

There will be a Dickinson Room to represent some of Dickinson's enterprises and a Manotick As it Was Room. Visitors may go through the empty second floor if they wish. Hurrah! The furniture has been returned from R.V.C.A. storage and three of the rooms are being repainted (paint courtesy of Manotick Home Hardware Esprit de corps: Thanks again to President Mark Jodoin for the article about Captain Justus Sherwood, U.E.L., soldier, spy, and settler whose descendants remain in Ottawa and along the St. Lawrence Front.

News from the Rideau Archives . . .

Hours:

The Archives is open every Tuesday from 9:30 am to 4:30 p.m., and at other times by appointment. (613-489-2926).

Shirley Adams is preparing an exhibit on the history of the Orange Lodge at Kars and Mary Davidson is gathering photos and histories of the places of worship including those whose parish boundaries go beyond the former township. Would you like to help?

Acquisitions: For a fund raiser for the Canadian Red Cross a signature redwork quilt was made c1895 with more than 235 names of Manotick-Kars and area names. The quilt, as well as some Clapp family vintage clothing and some family photos, are now at the Archives. The quilt will be displayed in the Manotick Room, Dickinson House, during Doors Open. Come and look for someone you knew.

From Last Month—The Name Game

From the April newsletter: Five places had 2 names. Kars properties were registered on Adam Johnston Eastman's plan as Wellington and remain thus. The post office, 1856, was always Kars. Malakoff was known as the Windfall because a tornado felled a number of old growth trees and the pioneers considered that a blessing.

Reeve Craig was nicknamed Puddle Alley because of poor drainage and the Periwinkle was the name given to an ice-cream parlour and store at Wattersons' Corners. North Gower Village began as North Gower Corners.

Correction: John Carson came from Ballymena, Ireland.

Where is White Horse Dam? It is located below the surface at the White Horse Rapids on the main channel of the Rideau at Manotick.

An Old Cookbook

by Owen Cooke

During the winter, Mary Davidson, a long-time volunteer with the Archives, donated a number of heritage cookbooks for our collection. Included was a very interesting, early local cookbook, which over the years has lost its cover, title page and any evidence of its date or why it was published.

However, it is possible to say something about the book from internal evidence.

The text, only 72 pages, appears to be complete. The book may have been intended to be given out free as publicity, because advertising is very prominent throughout. At the head of every page is "NOTICE: If your Grocer and Butcher use Toledo Computing Scales" and at the foot of every page is "USE BLUE RIBBON TEA".

There are a number of full-page advertisements from firms in Ottawa and Montreal, but the Ottawa pages are concentrated at the back of the book, suggesting that the book may be an Ottawa edition of what was originally a Montreal imprint.

The women's styles in the advertisements suggest that the book must have been published no later than about 1900. The telephone numbers in the Ottawa advertisements are three digits only, and those from Montreal are either three or four digits. Here are two of the interesting advertisements from the cookbook.

Let us conclude with some sage advice the book gives us on carving for dinner with guests. Perhaps the language has changed a bit, but we can still learn from this:

"Carving is one important acquisition in the routine of daily living, and all should try to attain a knowledge or ability to do it well, and withal gracefully. When carving use a chair slightly higher than the ordinary size, as it gives a better purchase on the meat, and appears more graceful than when standing, as is often quite necessary when carving a turkey, or a very large joint. More depends on skill than strength. The platter should be placed opposite, and sufficiently near to give perfect command of the article to be carved, the knife of medium size, sharp with a keen edge."

Wash with the Connor Ball-Bearing Washer

THE NEW WAY

The tub swings on steel ball bearings.

A little child can start it empty or full. By grasping the handle and swinging it to one side, the coil tempered steel springs stop it and start it back the other way with a quick reverse motion, as the tub travels the other way another spring swings it back again.

At each swing of the tub, the boiling water by centrifugal force and suction is forced through and through every thread and fibre of the clothes, cleaning them with three times the rapidity and more thoroughly than any other way and doing it with almost no labour.

Commence by cutting the slices thin, laying them carefully to one side of the platter, then afterwards placing the desired amount on each guest's plate, to be served in turn by the servant.

Gravies should be sent to the table very hot, and in helping one to gravy or melted butter, place it on a vacant side of the plate, not pour it over their meat, fish or fowl, that they may use only as much as they like.

When serving fowls, or meats, accompanied with stuffing, the guests should be asked if they would have a portion, as it is not every one to whom the flavour of stuffing is agreeable; in filling their plates, avoid heaping one thing upon another, as it makes a bad appearance."

Anyone who would like to perfect their carving technique may consult the this cookbook at Rideau Archives, in Box 261.29, on any Tuesday 9:30 to 4:30, when the Archives are open.

Mining the Rideau Records

Treasures, Curiosities and New Documents at Rideau Archives

Recently, the executive of Rideau Township Historical Society suggested that our current meeting announcements include more content and expand into true newsletters. Coral Lindsay's presentation on Rideau place names with the April number was the first such move towards a "new look" for the newsletter. We plan to contribute a regular column on new or interesting material from the Archives. The earlier article on an old cookbook from the archives is an example.
